

I just want to make known my opposition to any weakening of the Indiana Telephone Privacy Law. Everyone I know has been thrilled since this law took effect. We can eat supper and enjoy our evenings and weekends without being interrupted by calls from salespeople all the time. It had got to the point before this law, that I left my answering machine on 24 hours a day to discourage all the calls. If I want information from a company, I will call them. I do not want to be bombarded by unsolicited calls everyday. I am sure that the vast majority of people here in Indiana feel the same way, and do not believe that our wishes should be ignored. We pay to have phones in our homes for personal use, not to make ourselves available for "junk calls" all the time.

Thank you,
Herschel E. Hamm
